MADISONVILLE SWEETHEARTS
STOPPED HERE BY OFFICERSManaged to Escape From the Police and Drove to Clarksville, Tennessee.
Where They Were Married.(From Saturday's Daily)
After having been arrested here and held for several hours, Clarence Ferguson and Miss Clyde Linn, a youthful eloping couple from Madisonville, eluded the police and securing a livery rig drove through to Clarksville where they were married this morning at the Franklin House by Rev. S. P. McFerrin.Yesterday afternoon a telephone message was received from Mrs. M.
R. Ferguson, of Madisonville stating that her son and Miss Linn were passengers on the southbound L. & N. train, and asked that they be stopped here.They gracefully assented to accompany the officers when discovered on the train, and promised to return to Madisonville. About ten o'clock, the pair succeeded in escaping from the blue coated chaprains and, hiring a rig from a livery stable, hid themselves at Clarksville. The police had received no legal authority to hold the couple.The girl was very pretty and was dressed in a white sailor suit trimmed with blue, the skirt reaching barely to her ankles. The boy was outfitted, but none the less determined looking.

ORPHAN BRIGADE

Will Hold Its 21st Re-union at Louisville Sept. 20.The twenty-first annual re-union of the Orphan Brigade, one of the most famous bodies of the Confederate army will be held in Louisville,
September 20, lasting one day only.
The date is set on the anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga, one of the many battles where the brigade captured a battery from the Federal soldiers. Committees have been appointed to make arrangements.

DEATH FROM DROPSY

MRS. AZALEA TERRELL PASSES
AWAY IN THIS CITYMrs. Alexander, Pioneer School Teacher, Dies in Bowling Green.
Other Necrological Notes.(From Saturday's Daily)
Mrs. Azalea W. Terrell died Thursday afternoon at her home on West Seventh street. She had been ill for a long time, and dropsy was the cause of death. The deceased was the wife of John W. Terrell, who moved to Hopkinsville from the country several months ago, and the daughter of the late John W. White, a prominent citizen of Garretttsburg.
She was a noble Christian woman and her life was one of constant usefulness. She was a devoted member of the Baptist church. Besides her husband and aged mother, four sons and two daughters survive her. Funeral services were held at the late residence Friday afternoon, and the remains were interred in Hopewell cemetery.

BANK OF HOPKINSVILLE

BEAUTIFUL AND COMMODIOUS QUARTERS NOW READY FOR OCCUPANCY.--NO FINANCIAL INSTITUTION IN THE SOUTH HAS FINER APPOINTMENTS.--THE OFFICERS OF THE INSTITUTION.

(From Saturday's Daily)

After many weeks of work, following months of planning, the remodeling of the Bank of Hopkinsville building has been completed. Under the skillful hands of the artisans and the watchful supervision of architects, the new home of the popular institution has been transformed into one of the handsomest and most commodious business houses in the south, and, in its architectural proportions, in thorough keeping with its splendid reputation in community circles. Few banking establishments in larger cities can boast of finer or more modern and conveniently equipped quarters. Extensive alterations, the addition of a third story, and the brush of the painter have given the exterior of the bank an imposing appearance, while the interior excites the admiration of everybody. Upon entering the vestibule, an electric clock greets the eye, and happily reminds you that time is money. In the bank proper, one walks on Tennessee marble, and the beautifully decorated ceiling is of ivory effect. The equipment of the lobby is largely constructed of even in the coldest weather.

Hopkinsville has long been proud of the Bank of Hopkinsville. Its policy has at all times been liberal and progressive and along the safest lines. Its rank among financial institutions since its establishment has been most enviable, and it has been an important factor in the development of Hopkinsville's business interests. The president of the bank is Henry C. Gant, a wise and conservative financier in whom the community places thorough confidence. J. E. McPherson, the cas-hler, has for many years been the institution's presiding genius. He has been in the banking business since a youth and has perfectly mastered its every phase. In his capacity of cashier there is no detail which does not pass under his attention during the day, and the continued success together with the high reputation of the institution has been attained largely through his efforts. H. L.
McPherson, the assistant cashier, is fully qualified by reason of his long experience and natural talents for the position he holds. The head bookkeeper is J. P. Braden, an expert accountant and a gentleman of

H. C. GANT, PRESIDENT.

Skiro Egyptian marble, specially imported, while the furniture is of the richest mahogany. Bronze trimmings enhance the general attractiveness of the interior. To the left, on entering the lobby, there is a public reception room, and on the right are the offices of the president and the cashier. Conveniently arranged here and there, are desks and tables for the public, and the check desks are of Xovus glass.
The massive counters that extend almost the entire length of the lobby are of Egyptian marble, and the dealings plates are of Belgian marbles. Behind the counters are desks of the attaches of the bank. For the cashier there is a finely appointed cage, and arrangements of the working departments are unsurpassed anywhere. There are electric fixtures in bronze, traveling lights, public and private telephone booths, and nothing, indeed, is omitted that could contribute to the comfort and convenience of the patrons and in the way of facilities for the officials and employees. The great vault, built by the Hall Safe & Lock company, of Cincinnati, is sufficiently large and strong to answer every possible requirement. The door is the most modern known and secured with twenty bolts. The safe is the largest and made by the Mosler Safe company, of Hamilton, Ohio. In the rear of the lobby is an elegantly furnished customers' apartment, and back of that is the directors' room.
The latter is finished in Flemish oak and Lincolnt decorations, the ceiling in red of ivory effect, with red leather furniture to match. Toilet rooms are located in the rear of the building. The contractors of the interior construction were M. Ohmer Sons company, of Dayton, Ohio, and the marble work was sublet by that firm to the Charles Weze Marble and Tile company, of Columbus, Ohio. F. H.
Worlgetter, of Toledo, the expert in general charge, finished his labors yesterday and left for his home. The structural remodeling of the building was done by the Forbes Manufacturing company of this city, which also furnished the steam heating plant by which the entire building will be kept perfectly comfortable.

J. E. McPHERSON, CASHIER.

great personal worth, and he is ably assisted with the books of the bank by popular Archie Gant. The duties of collecting clerk are efficiently discharged by Charles McKee.

HEADACHE POWDER

TAKEN BY ENGINEER AND HE IS FOUND UNCONSCIOUSEntire Left Side Paralyzed, and His Condition is Serious--Discovered Lying by His Engine.Horace Jenkins, engineer at the rock crushing plant of the Dalton & Marsh Stone Co., was unconscious all day yesterday and last night and is paralyzed on the left side from an overdose of a headache powder, the ingredients of which were a combination of coal tar preparations, which he took early yesterday morning.Mr. Jenkins went to his work yesterday morning about 3 o'clock o'clock as usual, and soon thereafter took two or three doses of the powders. Some time afterward he was found lying unconscious alongside the engine, and from the condition of the fires and the water in the boiler, he had evidently been insensible for some time. A doctor was called, who worked with him for two hours.The entire left side was paralyzed, and he did not regain consciousness until this morning, and then only partially.

MID-MONTH MEETING

OF THE CITY COUNCIL WAS HELD
ON FRIDAY EVENINGAll the Members of the Board Present.
—A Report of The Business Transacted.

(From Saturday's Daily)

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the city council was held last night, with the mayor and all members of the council present. The Forbes Manufacturing company was exempted from taxation for five years and their new factory which is being located on the belt line.On motion of Councilman Twyman the auditor and treasurer was instructed to return the bond and certified check for $3,000, which was held by the city, to the administrator of the late H. M. Dalton, Councilman Davis declining to vote on the motion.The street committee was instructed to begin the work of improving and beautifying the plot of ground on Ninth street in front of South Kentucky college. The college authorities agree to improve their frontage on Belmont and Ninth and to lease the plot of ground for ninety nine years to the city on which the city will make the improvements.The paving ordinance on 16th street, which was passed at the last meeting and vetoed by the mayor, and was again passed by the council.The chief of police was instructed to enforce the building permit ordinance, and to detail a man at once to see that no building was done without a permit.Mayor Meacham reported the sale of the city property which was sold for taxes on the 16th and bought in by the city. He stated that the law would be strictly enforced in the matter of this sale.The weed and grass ordinance was passed. It appears in full elsewhere in this impression of the New Era.

COAL OIL FOR FLEAS.

Applied to Pig, Caught Fire and House Was Wrecked.

HENDERSON, Ky., July 20.—G. W. Dixie, of this county, lost his pet pig and nearly lost his fine residence today.

The pig had fleas and the fleas did not remain with the animal, but skipped onto the children, who played with it. To get rid of fleas Dixie greased the grunter with coal oil and turned it loose. A fire was built in the yard later, and the pig nosed up to see what was doing. He got too near and the oil on his body caught fire. Squealing with pain the pig ran under the house and set fire to the parlor floor. The flames spread, and the house was soon a total wreck.

LIEUT. CHAPPELL

Commission is Received From Office of Adjutant General.

An official order from the office of Adj. Gen. Henry Lawrence, has been received here commissioning Second Lieut. James E. Chappell, as First Lieutenant of Company D, and also appointing him as Battalion Adjutant of the First Battalion, Third Regiment, K. S. G. The appointment takes effect at once. This leaves the position of 2nd Lieut. of Co. D, vacant, but this will also probably be filled shortly.

REDUCED ACREAGE

IN THE CLARKSVILLE AND HOPKINSVILLE TOBACCO DISTRICT.

The department of agriculture, in its tobacco report, says that in the Clarksville and Hopkinsville district the crop is 90 per cent of last year. It is too late to expect the best results unless that season is more favorable than usual.

The inspectors' weekly report of the Hopkinsville tobacco market follows:

Receipts for wk.	160
Receipts for yr.	4945
Priv. sales for wk.	400
Pub. sales for wk.	3983

The bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture has so extended the scope of its work that its reports will hereafter cover a far larger number of agricultural products than in the past, the added list including alfalfa, hemp, broom-corn, kafir corn, sorghum, blue-grass, millet, sugar beets, Canadian peas, cow peas, cabbages, onions, tomatoes, apples, lemons, blackberries, raspberries, strawberries, cantaloupes, watermelons and peanuts. The last issue of that crop reporter includes a statement of the condition of the new articles, showing that in none of them is there a full crop yield throughout the country. Montana is the only alfalfa country that comes up to the standard in that article. Minnesota takes the lead in hemp with a full crop. California shows the highest yield in sugar beets with 98 per cent. There is a noticeable falling off in apples, several states showing not to exceed 70 per cent of a full crop. A similar condition exists with regard to peaches.

After several years of experiment the department of agriculture feels that it has solved the problem of tobacco selection and increasing the yield per acre from seed grown on the same ground where the crop was raised. This season practically all the tobacco raisers of the Connecticut valley, of Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky and Tennessee and most of those in Florida and a good many in all the other tobacco states have accepted the plan that the department has worked out for them in the past four years. They are saving their choice seed under paper bags to prevent contamination of the pollen, and on the most carefully managed plantations the farmers are raising tobacco crops that bid fair to double the yield of the average previous years. This year is the first time that the method is being freely tried on a big scale.

What More Can Hopkinsville People Ask?

When well-known residents and highly-respected people of Hopkinsville make such statements as the following, it must carry conviction to every reader:

W. H. West, stock raiser, city constable and collector, living at 848. 7th St. says: "I suffered for years with kidney and bladder troubles, and in consequence was subject to a great deal of pain. There was a heavy dull aching in the small of my back over my right hip and extending down over the bladder. The pain became especially severe if I should stir around or remain long on my feet. The difficulty of the kidney secretions annoyed me at all times. They were scanty, irregular and the passages were accompanied with a burning sensation. I heard so much said about Doan's Kidney Pills that I got a box and gave them a trial. I found that they benefited me in every way, so much so that I have taken the opportunity on several occasions to recommend them to my friends, and will continue to do so. You may refer to me as having used your remedy with good results and I hope that it will be the means of relieving others who may be suffering from that common complaint, kidney trouble."

GO ONE DAY EARLIER

CHANGE IN MAMMOTH CAVE TRIP IS ANNOUNCED

Made Necessary by New Time Schedule Which Has Been Adopted by the Steamer Chaparron.

A change has been made necessary in the itinerary of the Mammoth Cave Trip.

The itinerary as first made out counted on the boat making the trip down Green and Barren rivers on Friday August 17 but the schedule of the steamer Chaparron has been changed and the boat makes the trip on Thursday.

Therefore the New Era's party will be forced to leave Hopkinsville on the afternoon of August 15, spend the night at Bowling Green, make the river trip on the 16th, reaching Mammoth Cave at 8 p. m. that night, spend the 18, 19 and 20 at the cave and return home on the night of the 21. This provides exactly the same trip as before mapped out, with the exception that it will be begun and ended one day earlier than was expected.

The Evansville Courier says: "Mr. Brand, local forecaster, in charge of the local office of the United States weather bureau, when asked concerning his trip up Green river which he made last week mainly with a view of familiarizing himself at close range, with the river conditions along the upper stretch of that stream said:

"My week's end trip up Green river proved to be not only interesting and instructive, but also one of the most enjoyable and restful of my recent short outings. On leaving the Ohio river with its turbid and at present low water, it was an agreeable surprise to find a good boating stage all the way up to Bowling Green. This navigable depth is maintained all the year, so I am informed by means of a system of fine locks, owned and operated by the federal government. The locks, which are located at Spottsville, Runsey, Rochester and Woodbury on the Green river and a little above Green Castle on Barren river, are huge structures of masonry having long wooden crib-like approaches filled with thousands of tons of broken stone. The solidity of these working monuments of engineering skill, their up-to-date equipment, and the remarkable tidy appearance of their general surroundings, stamps them at once, even in the eyes of the uninitiated as government works which are carefully and constantly guarded so as to keep them in the best of repair.

"The novelty of being passed through one of these locks on a boat, is an experience that would amply repay one for the time consumed and money expended in making the entire Green river trip. Each lock has a complement of three keepers, and is surrounded by a reservation sufficiently large to accommodate four or five neat buildings used for living quarters and store-houses, and still have large plots for gardens and pasturage.

"The scenery along the wind and crooked courses of the Green and Barren rivers, between wooded or rocky and at times abrupt neighboring slopes is certainly picturesque when leisurely viewed at this season of the year from the cool elevated deck of a steamboat. As the Green river course is not plotted out by means of range lights, the boats depend solely upon their large electric headlights which they operate throughout the entire night. One of the grandest and prettiest sights imaginable is by this means offered passengers while watching the constant play of light and shadows, on the overhanging foliage along both banks, when mingling with the sheen of the merging rays over the center of the stream.

"As a whole the Green river trip was a treat which will stand repetition, and one that left an impression long to be remembered."

E. W. ROSE MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo. HARRISBURG, ILL., May 12th, 1906.
DEAR SIR: Believing that "ZEMO" saved my arms, if not my life, I will gladly tell all cases of itching eczema of both arms. I tried eight different doctors, and every eczema cure I could hear of without relief. The disease grew worse and spread to my neck and breast; my arms had great holes eaten in them; I soon became an invalid and was confined to my bed part of the time. My husband bought a bottle of "ZEMO"; the first application stopped the itching, and I began to improve; in six weeks and one day the disease had disappeared, and my arms were clean and smooth as my picture will show, before and after using "ZEMO." My arms were so bad some of my friends wanted me to have them taken off, but I would not agree. I am now entirely cured and have gained ten pounds in weight, and feel better than I have felt in many years. I consider my quick recovery by using "ZEMO" nothing short of a miracle. I will gladly answer all inquiries and recommend "ZEMO" to all persons suffering from any itching skin disease.
Yours gratefully,
Mrs. Harvey Burks.

SAVED BABY LYON'S LIFE

Untold Suffering and Constant Misery—Awful Sight From that Dreadful Complaint, Infantile Eczema—Commenced at Top of his Head and Covered Entire Body.

MOTHER PRAISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our baby had that dreadful complaint, Infantile Eczema, which afflicted him for several months, commencing at the top of his head, and at last covering his whole body. His sufferings were untold and constant misery, in fact, there was nothing we would not have done to have given him relief. The family doctor seemed to be wholly incapable of coping with the case, and after various experiments of his, which resulted in no benefit to the child, we sent to Mazon, Ill., to a druggist and got a full set of the Cuticura Remedies and applied as per directions, and he began to improve immediately, and in about three or four days began to show a brighter spirit and really laughed, for the first time in a year. In about ninety days he was fully recovered, with the exception of a rough skin, which is gradually disappearing, and eventually will be replaced by a healthy one. "Praise for the Cuticura Remedies has always been our greatest pleasure, and there is nothing too good that we could say in their favor, for they certainly saved our baby's life, for he was the most awful sight that I ever beheld, prior to the treatment of the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Macbelle Lyon, 1829 Appleton Ave., Parsons, Kan., July 18, 1905."

JUST A SQUARE DEAL

IN SENATORIAL PRIMARY IS ALL THAT HE DESIRES.

Letter From Gov. Beckham to Senator McCreary in Which a Proposition is Submitted.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 20.—Gov. Beckham has addressed a letter to Senator McCreary regarding statements made by him at the Louisville conference Tuesday. In which Senator McCreary said he wanted a fair election and an honest count in the primary. Gov. Beckham declares himself anxious to meet McCreary more than half way in securing his wishes in the matter. The governor expresses in his letter the greatest confidence in the honesty of the state committee. He then submits to Senator McCreary the following proposition:

"1. That we request the committee that all candidates for senator and other offices shall be present at the drawing for places on the ballot so that all possible doubt may be removed to the imagined advantage as to whose name shall be first."

"2. That we request the committee as you and I are the only two announced candidates for senator to be allowed to divide the election officers equally between us."

The governor further says that if McCreary can offer any further suggestions that will guarantee the fairness of the primary he will be glad to co-operate with him.

NORMAL SCHOOLS

Win in the State Fiscal Court.—Case Will Be Appealed.

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 20.—Judge Stout, of the state fiscal court rendered a decision upholding the constitutionality of the legislative act establishing two normal schools in Kentucky. An appeal will be taken.

A sweet breath adds to the joys of a kiss. You wouldn't want to kiss your wife, mother or sweetheart with a bad breath. You can't have a sweet breath without a healthy stomach. You can't have a healthy stomach without perfect digestion. There is only one remedy that digests what you eat and makes the breath as sweet as a rose—and that remedy is KODOL FOR DYSPEPSIA. It is a relief for sour stomach, palpitation of the heart, and other ailments arising from disorder of the stomach and digestion. Take a little Kodol after your meals and see what it will do for you. FIRST OF AUGUST

The Kentucky state railroad commission has sent out to all railroads in the state affected by its recent decision in the matter of reducing rates, official notices, with a copy of the table of rates decided upon by the commission.

The law provides that the railroads should have official notice ten days before the decision should go into effect. The new schedule of rates as fixed by the decision of the commission will go into effect about June 19, but the railroads asked for an extension of time, which was granted.

McD. Ferguson and J. W. Siler, member of the commission, were in the city yesterday, en route to Springfield, where they went to consult C. C. McChord, chairman of the commission. Mr. McChord was unable either to go to Frankfort or come to Louisville, so he invited the commissioners to spend and pay him a social as well as a business visit. Courier-Journal.

MEETING OF BETHEL

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION WILL BE HELD HERE AUG. 7-8

Delegates From Forty-One Churches Will be Present—Annual Session Will be Delivered by Dr. Jones.

Bethel Baptist association, organized in 1825, and one of the most important bodies of the denomination in Kentucky, will meet in Hopkinsville August 7 and continue in session two days. A large attendance of delegates is expected and the entertainment committee of the local church is busy securing homes for those who will attend.

President William H. Harrison, of Bethel Male College, Russellville, is the moderator, and the Rev. H. C. McGill, pastor of the Olivet church at Howell, is secretary.

There are forty-one churches in the association, and each is entitled to three representatives. Not less than seventy-five delegates are expected to be present. Last year Bethel association contributed more money to missions than any similar Baptist organization in the state, excepting the Long River association, which includes the Louisville churches.

The association will convene at 10 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 7, and the district mission board will meet one hour earlier. The annual sermon will be delivered by the Rev. W. C. Jones, pastor of the Russellville church.

Among the prominent Baptists who will be present are Rev. T. J. Watts, secretary of the state Sunday school organization, Dr. G. W. Young, secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of Kentucky, Dr. J. G. Board, secretary of the state board of missions, and Dr. J. N. Prestidge, editor of the Baptist Argus.

Try a little KODOL FOR DYSPEPSIA after your meals. See the effect it will produce on your general feeling by digesting your food and helping your stomach to get itself into shape. Many stomachs are overworked to the point where they refuse to go further. Kodol digests your food and gives your stomach the rest it needs, while its reconstructive properties get the stomach back into working order. Kodol relieves flatulence, sour stomach, palpitation of the heart, belching, etc. Sold by L. L. Elgin, Anderson-Fowler, (Inc.)

DAVIS, KENNEDY & COMPANY'S BIG MILLINERY STORE.

Will Have Commodious Stand on Ninth and Main Formerly, Occupied by Mrs. Keegan.

Mrs. Emma Davis, Mrs. Ida Allen Kennedy and Mrs. E. P. Fears have formed a partnership under the firm name of Davis, Kennedy & Co. for the purpose of conducting a first class millinery business in the house on corner of Main and Ninth street occupied in the past by Mrs. Ida Layne and Mrs. E. Keegan. This new firm will start with a first class brand new, carefully selected stock of millinery goods, and will be prepared to suit every variety of taste in fashionable millinery. The senior member, Mrs. Emma Davis, has been one of the most successful milliners in Hopkinsville, Mrs. Ida A. Kennedy has, beyond question, the longest experience in this line of any one now in the business in Hopkinsville. Mrs. Fears is known as a successful woman in business, first as a teacher in the county schools, and next as a dealer in real estate. These experiences, and her general information, will make her a valuable member of this firm. Mrs. Fears will be business manager.

The establishment has a happy selection in its title and will be known as "The Palace." Mrs. Kennedy will do the firm's buying, and will leave shortly for an extended visit to the millinery markets of the east. The firm will take possession of the house August 1.

A Tragic Finish.

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth Melver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life. Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at L. L. BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe! Angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of childbirth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain.

FOURTEEN DAYS

AND THE MAMMOTH CAVE CONTEST WILL BE OVER.

Many Changes will Probably Occur in That Time.—Accommodations Arranged For.

In just fourteen days, not counting Sundays, the new Era's trip to Mammoth Cave contest will close. During that time many things are expected to happen and it is probable that many unexpected changes in the standing will be made from time to time.

These fourteen actual working days afford lots of time however for work upon the part of the candidates and their friends. When it is figured that every Daily subscriber for a year means five hundred votes and every Weekly subscriber 100, it is easily seen that practically any can be overcome by a little energetic soliciting among the people generally. There is no one who would refuse to help one of the young ladies.

MISS MARY THOMAS.

The leader in District No. 11.

The trip has been arranged in every detail, accommodations having been reserved several days ago at Guthrie Bowling Green, on the steamship Chaperon and at the Mammoth Cave Hotel. There will therefore be no trouble experienced in this line and the party can rest assured that they will have the best of everything afforded.

This year has been a record breaker for the number of visitors to the cave. The addition of the river trip has also made it more attractive and interesting and thousands of people have taken advantage of this feature, and everyone is enthusiastic in their praise of the pleasure and beauty enjoyed here. At the cave, the hotel has been crowded since early in March and when negotiations were first begun with regard to securing accommodations for the New Era's party, the hotel management stated in one of their letters that they were glad that the time for the trip had been set for August as the capacity of the hotel was already engaged for June and July. As stated above, positive arrangements have been made however, for the New Era's party and no fears need be felt that they will be unduly crowded.

From now until the eighth day of August all the candidates had better get busy and secure all the votes they can. It will not be safe to trust to any lead which they may have now.

DUMB PLAYING

Lost Final Game at Pembroke—Games Today and Tuesday

The last ball game of the series between Hopkinsville and the Fetters at Pembroke Saturday resulted in another victory for the Fetters by the score of 3 to 2. The game was lost through dumb playing at critical stages. Hopkinsville's two scores were made on Morgan's home run which he knocked with Hadden on the bases.

Two more games will be played there this week. Hopkinsville and Bowling Green being the contestants. The first game is being played this afternoon. A bus will leave Ninth and Main streets tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock which will carry fans to the game.

CERULEAN AND DAWSON

Are Crowded to the Limit.—All Previous Records Broken.

Cerulean and Dawson are having the largest crowds in their history, accommodations being practically unobtainable at either resort.

A considerable number of people from Hopkinsville went to both places yesterday, and at each the report was the same—hotels filled to overflowing.

At Dawson yesterday Princeton and Madisonville played a game of baseball, the latter team winning by the score of 3 to 0. Such a crowd went over to see the game that the trains in each direction were crowded to the limit, in some instances even standing room being at a premium.

ANOTHER CRISIS

IN RUSSIA AS RESULT OF DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT.

Imperial Edict Issued to That End and Another Virtually Declares Martial Law.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 23.—

The Imperial Ukase has reached a decision to dissolve parliament and fixing the time for the convocation of the newly elected assembly as March 5, 1907, the condition of new election to be published later.

Second Ukase places St. Petersburg in a state of extraordinary security by the declaration of minor form of martial law. Large part of the province of Kiev, where armed uprisings are anticipated in consequence of the dissolution of parliament, is placed under martial law.

The Nasha Shian says that the decision to postpone the dissolution of parliament was preceded by the receipt of what was practically an ultimatum from the Gorenkyn Minister which demanded to be allowed to resign or that it be given a free hand.

The prevailing sentiment at Petersburg continues to be that a decisive step to suppress parliament as a revolutionary center will be necessary in the near future but there seems hope that the open breach between the Left and the Constitutional Democrats, with the loss of prestige suffered by the latter, may so complicate the situation as to render the task of the government easier.

All chance of the formation of a ministry composed of the Constitutional Democrats is seemingly ended as it is plain that the Constitutional Democrats no longer control a parliamentary majority. The present situation cannot be prolonged, and many competent judges believe that matters are rapidly moving toward a dictatorship.

The arrival of the guard regiments at the capital has been followed by the strengthening of the patrols throughout the industrial quarters, where the workmen are greatly excited by the complete suppression of the socialistic press. Orders have been issued to all printing offices to notify the chief of police immediately of any attempt to set up the address of the lower house to the country. The temper of the masses can be judged by the fact that mobs resisted the closing of the office of the Socialistic papers last night and that at meetings of the Poletariat organizations of Moscow it was resolved to make the dissolution of Parliament the signal for a general strike.

A Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicine greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment.

It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic or lingering coughs, bronchial throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure, very severe, obstinate, chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Vacation For Carriers.

Beginning August 1 the rural free delivery carriers throughout the country will be allowed fifteen days leave of absence between that date and December 31. They are granted this through the postoffice appropriation bill. They are to apply to the fourth assistant postmaster general for the dates they desire off.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

Result of Teachers Examination—Miss Nannie Reeder Awarded State Diploma.

At the examination for county teachers certificates which was held Friday and Saturday, there were eleven applicants and out of this number five secured first class certificates, two were awarded second class, three got third class and one failed.

Page Blakemore was the only one who took the examination for the state college scholarship. He passed with the very creditable average of 86.5-10.

Miss Nannie Reeder, who returned last week from Lexington where she had attended the summer school at state college, took the prescribed state examination before leaving and was awarded a state diploma, which entitles her to teach in any school of the state without taking the county examination.

The Christian County Teachers' institute will be held at the courthouse here the week beginning August 20.

LEAD AND ZINC

Valuable Deposits Found in Crittenden County, Kentucky.

Louisville capitalists have struck it rich in Crittenden by a lucky find of lead and zinc ore. Experts were at work prospecting for four spar when at the depth of 30 feet they unexpectedly uncovered a rich vein of zinc and lead ore.

The mines are located near Crittenden Springs and near the old Eclipse mines, that are among the richest lead and zinc mines in the country. The samples brought to the surface assay 25 per cent, and it is thought to be much richer further down. Arrangements are being made to open the mine on a large scale, which will be operated day and night.

THE FATTED CALF

Not Killed But Sold at the City Pound.

The only excitement the police department could scare up today was the sale of a bull calf which had been taken up as the result of the stock law and which had not been redeemed by its owner. Even this feature of the day failed in its interest for when the hour for the auction arrived there was only one bidder present, this being Low Johnson and the calf was knocked off to him at his bid of $3.50. The calf had been fed at the city's expense for about a month and was in fine condition.

This is the first instance since the stock law went into effect of an animal being sold.

CHAPTER V.

HE awoke to find the sun high in the heavens. Iris was preparing breakfast, a fine fire was crackling cheerfully, and the presiding goddess had so altered her appearance that the sailor surveyed her with astonishment.

He noiselessly assumed a sitting posture, tucked his feet beneath him and blinked. The girl's face was not visible from where he sat, and for a few seconds he thought he must surely be dreaming. She was attired in a neat navy blue dress and smart blouse. Her white canvas shoes were replaced by strong leather boots. She was quite spick and span, this island Hebe.

So soundly had he slept that his senses returned but slowly. At last he guessed what had happened. She had risen with the dawn and, conquering her natural feeling of repulsion, selected from the store he accumulated yesterday some more suitable garments than those in which she escaped from the wreck.

He quietly took stock of his own tattered condition and passed a reflective hand over the stubble on his chin. In a few days his face would resemble a scrubbing brush. In that mournful moment he would have exchanged even his pipe and tobacco box worth untold gold, for shaving tinkle. Who can say why his thoughts took such trends? Twenty-four hours can effect great changes in the human mind if controlling influences are active.

Then came a sharp revision of feeling. His name was Robert—a month. He reached for his boots, and Iris heard him.

"Good morning," she cried, smiling sweetly. "I thought you would never awake. I suppose you were very, very tired. Please wash quickly. The eggs will be hard."

"Eggs?"

"Yes. I made a collection among the trees. I tasted one of a lot that looked good. It was first rate."

He had not the moral courage to begin the day with a rebuke. She was irrepressible, but she really must not do these things. He smothered a sigh in the improvised basin which was placed ready for him.

Miss Deane had prepared a capital meal. Of course the ham and biscuits still bulked large in the bill of fare, but there were boiled eggs, fried bananas and an elderly cocoanut. These things, supplemented by clear, cold water, were not so bad for a couple of castaways hundreds of miles from everywhere.

For the life of him the man could not refrain from displaying the conversational art in which he excelled. Their talk dealt with Italy, Egypt, India. He spoke with the ease of culture and enthusiasm. Once he slipped into anecdote apropos of the helplessness of British soldiers in any matter outside the scope of the king's regulations.

"I remember," he said, "seeing a cavalry subaltern and the members of an escort sitting half starved on a number of bags piled up in the Snakin desert."

THE PROPOSITION

The Kentucky New Era proposes to send twelve young ladies from this section to Mammoth Cave sometime in August, all expenses from Hopkinsville being borne by this paper. The section has been divided into districts and the young lady receiving the highest number of votes in each district will go on the trip, no matter what the result may be in the other districts. In addition the young lady who receives the highest number of votes in Christian county, irrespective of the district, will go as the candidate from that county at large, and in this case the second highest will then go as the candidate from that district.

Readers of the New Era are to select the young ladies as votes are given for payments on subscription and a ballot counting one vote, appears in each issue of the paper.

For every dollar paid on subscription to the Daily or Weekly New Era, either old subscribers, who are in arrears, or new subscribers in advance, a special ballot good for 100 votes will be issued. This, as well as the coupons appearing in the paper, are to be filled out and deposited in the ballot box at this office. See full particulars elsewhere regarding the contest.

This trip will be one of the most delightful and improving ever offered in this section and candidates should get their names in early so as to let their friends know that they are in the race.

And what do you think were in the bags?"

"I don't know," said Iris, keenly alert for deductions.

"Biscuits! They thought the bags contained patent fodder until I enlightened them."

It was on the tip of her tongue to pounce on him with the comment, "Then you have been an officer in the army." But she forbore. She had guessed this earlier. Yet the mischievous light in her eyes defied control. He was warned in time and pulled himself up short.

"You read my face like a book," she cried.

"No printed page was ever so legible. Now, Miss Deane, we have guessed too long. I am a largard this morning, but before starting work I have a few serious remarks to make."

"More digs?" she inquired saucily.

"I repudiate digs! In the first place, you must not make any more experiments in the matter of food. The eggs were a wonderful effort; but, flattered by success, you may poison yourself."

"Secondly?"

"You must never pass out of my sight without carrying a revolver, not a much for defense, but as a signal. Did you take one when you went bird's nesting?"

"No. Why?"

There was a troubled look in his eyes when he answered.

"It is best to tell you at once that before help reaches us we may be visited by equal and bloodthirsty savages. I would not even mention this if it were a remote contingency. As matters stand, you ought to know that such a thing may happen. Let us trust in God's goodness that assistance may come soon. The island has seemingly been deserted for many months, and therein lies our best chance of escape. But I am obliged to warn you lest you should be taken unawares."

"How serious enough now."

"How do you know that such danger threatens us?" she demanded.

"I considered readily. 'Because I happen to have read a good deal about the China sea and its frequenters,' he said. 'I am the last man in the world to alarm you needlessly. All I mean to convey is that certain precautions should be taken against a risk that is possible, not probable. No more.'"

She could not repress a shudder. The sailor seemed to tell her that he would defend her against a host of savages if he were endowed with many lives, but he was perfect tongue-tied. He even reviled himself for having spoken, but she saw the anguish in his face, and her woman's heart acknowledged him as her protector, her shield.

"Mr. Jenks," she said simply, "we are in God's hands. I put my trust in him and in you. I am hopeful—may, confident. I thank you for what you have done, for all that you will do. If you cannot preserve me from threatening perils no man could, for you are as brave and gallant a gentleman as lives on the earth today."

Now, the strange feature of this extraordinary and unexpected outburst of pent up emotion was that the girl pronounced his name with the slightly emphasized accentuation of one who knew it to be a mere disguise. The man was so taken aback by her declaration of faith that the minor incident, though it did not escape him, was smothered in a tumult of feeling.

He could not trust himself to speak. He rose hastily and seized the ax to deliver a murderous assault upon a sago palm that stood close at hand.

Iris was the first to recover a degree of self possession. For a moment she had bared her soul. With reaction came a sensitive shrinking. Her delicate nature disapproved these sentimental displays. She wanted to box her own ears.

With innate tact she took a keen interest in the felling of the tree.

"What do you want it for?" she inquired when the sturdy trunk creaked and fell.

Jenks felt better now.

"This is a change of diet," he explained. "No, we don't boil the leaves or nibble the bark. When I split this palm open you will find that the interior is full of pith. I will cut it out for you, and then it will be your task to knead it with water after well washing it, pick out all the fiber and finally permit the water to evaporate. In a couple of days the residue will be a coarse white powder, which, when boiled, is sago."

"Good questions," said Iris.

"The story sounds unconvincing, but I believe I am correct. It is worth a trial."

"I should have imagined that sago grew on a stalk like rice or wheat."

"Or Topsy?"

She laughed. A difficult situation had passed without undue effort. Unhappily the man reopened it. While using a crowbar as a wedge he endeavored to put matters on a straight-forward footing.

"A little while ago," he said, "you seemed to imply that I had assumed the name of Jenks."

But Miss Deane's confidential mood had gone. "Nothing of the kind," she said coldly. "I think Jenks is an excellent name."

She regretted the words even as they fell from her lips. The sailor gave a mighty wrench with the bar, splitting the log to its clustering leaves.

"You are right," he said. "It is distinctive, brief, dogmatic. I cling to it passionately."

Soon afterward, leaving Iris to the manufacture of sago, he went to the leeward side of the island, a search for turtles being his ostensible object. When the trees hid him he quickened his pace and turned to the left in order to explore the cavity marked on the tin with a skull and crossbones. To his surprise he hit upon the remnants of a roadway—that is, a line through the wood where there were no well grown trees, where the ground bore traces of humanity in the shape of a wrinkled and midwinded pair of Chinese boots, a wooden sandal, even the decayed remains of a palanquin or litter.

At last he reached the edge of the pit, and the sight that met his eyes held him spellbound.

The labor of many hands had torn a chasm, a quarry, out of the side of the hill. Roughly circular in shape, it had a diameter of perhaps a hundred feet, and at its deepest part, toward the left, it ran to a depth of forty feet. In the lower side, where the sailor stood, it descended rapidly for some fifteen feet.

Glasses, shrubs, plants of every variety, grew in profusion down the steep slopes wherever seeds could find precarious nurture until a point was reached about ten or eleven feet from the bottom. There all vegetation ceased, as if forbidden to cross a magic line.

Below this belt the place was a charnel house. The bones of men and animals mingled in weird confusion. Most were

She hit her lip to suppress her tears, but being the Eve in this garden, she continued.

"How did you find out? Is there anything nasty in there?"

"Yes, the remains of animals and other things. I would not have told you were it not imperative."

"Are you keeping other secrets from me?"

"Oh, quite a number."

He managed to conjure up a smile, and the ruse was effective. She applied the words to his past history.

"I hope they will not be revealed so dramatically," she said.

"You never can tell," he answered. They were in prophetic vein that morning. They returned in silence to the cave.

"I wish to go inside with a lamp. May I?" he asked.

"May I come too?" she demanded.

He assented, with an explanation of his design. When the lamp was in order he held it close to the wall and conducted a systematic survey. The geological fault which favored the construction of the tunnel seemed to diverge to the left at the farther end. The "face" of the rock exhibited the marks of persistent labor. The stone had been hewn away by main force when the dislocation of strata ceased to be helpful.

His knowledge was limited on the subject, yet Jenks believed that the material here was a hard limestone rather than the external basalt. Searching each inch with the feeble light, he passed on with an exclamation.

"What is it?" cried Iris.

"I cannot be certain," he said doubtfully. "Would you mind holding the lamp while I use a crowbar?"

In the stone was visible a thin vein, bluish white in color. He managed to break off a fair sized lump containing a well defined specimen of the foreign metal.

They hurried into the open air and examined the fragment with curious eyes. The sailor picked it with his knife and the substance in the vein came off in laminated layers, small, brittle scales.

"Is it silver?" Iris was almost excited.

"I do not think so. I am no expert, but I have a vague idea. I have seen."

He scratched his head and moved away the fragments with his hand, that physical habit of his when perplexed.

"I have it," he said. "It is anti-mony."

"Miss Deane pursed her lips in disdain. 'Antimony? What was anti-mony?'"

"So much fuss for nothing," she said. "It is used in alloys and medicines."

He explained. "To us it is useless."

They were the clothes of Dyaks. Characteristic hats and weapons denoted their nationality. The others, the first harvest of this modern Gogotha, might have been Chinese coolies. When the sailor's fascinated vision could register details he distinguished yokes, baskets, odd looking spades and picks strewn amid the bones. The animals were all of one type—small, lanky, with long pointed skulls. At last he spied a withered hoof. They were pigs.

Over all lay a thick coating of fine sand, deposited from the eddying winds that could never reach the silent depths. The place was gruesome, horribly depressing. Jenks broke out into a clammy perspiration. He seemed to be looking at the secrets of the grave.

At last his superior intelligence asserted itself. His brain became clear. He recovered its power of analysis. He began to criticize, reflect, and this is the theory he evolved:

Some one, long ago, had discovered valuable minerals in the volcanic rock. Mining operations were in full blast when the extinct volcano took its revenge upon the human ants gnawing at its vitals and smothered them by a deadly outpouring of carbonic acid gas, the bottled up poison of the ages.

A horde of pigs, running wild over the island—placed there no doubt by Chinese fishers—had met the same fate while intent on dreadful orgy.

Then there came a European who knew how the anhydride gas, being heavier than the surrounding air, settled like water in that terrible hollow. He, too, had striven to wrest the treasure from the soil by driving a tunnel into the cliff. His brain became clear, and he had gone away, perhaps to obtain help, after cruelly registering his knowledge on the lid of a tin canister.

This, again, probably fell into the hands of another man, who, curious but unconvicted, caused himself to be set ashore on this desolate spot with a few inadequate stores. Possibly he had arranged to be taken off within a fixed time.

But a sampan laden with Dyak pirates came first, and the intrepid explorer's bones rested near the well, while his head had gone to decorate the hut of some fierce village chief. The murderers, after burying their own dead for the white man fought hard, witness the empty cartridges—searched the island. Some of them, faintly inquisitive, descended into the hollow. They remained there. The others, superstitious barbarians, fled for their lives, embarking so hastily that they took from the cave neither tools nor oil, though they would greatly prize these articles.

Such was the tragic web he spun, a compound of fact and fancy. It explained all perplexities save one. What did "32 divided by 1" mean? Was there yet another fearsome devil awaiting solution?

And then his thoughts flew to Iris. Happen what might, her bright picture was seldom absent from his brain. Suppose, egg hunting, she had stumbled across this valley of death! How could he hope to keep it hidden from her? Was not the ghastly knowledge better than the horror of a chance ramble through the wood and the shock of the reason. Three of them were still fastened to the davits and carried down with the hull.

So, toward the water was not so clear. The waves created patches of foam, and long submarine plants swayed gently in the undercurrent.

To reach Palm Tree rock—anticipating its subsequent name—he must cross a space of some thirty feet and wade up to his waist.

He made the passage with ease.

Patched against the hole of the tree was a long, narrow case, very heavy. Iron clamped and marked with letters in black triangles and the broad arrow of the British government.

"Rites, by all the gods!" shouted the sailor.

The Sirdar carried a consignment of arms and ammunition from Hongkong to Singapore. Providence had decreed that a practically inexhaustible store of cartridges should be hurried across the lagoon to the island. And here were rifles enough to equip half a company. He would not risk the precious ax in an attempt to open the case. He must go back for a crowbar.

What else was there in this store-house thrust by Nature from the ocean bed? A chest of tea, seemingly undamaged; three barrels of flour, utterly ruined; a saloon chair, smashed from its pivot; a battered chronometer.

For the rest, fragments of timber intermingled with pulverized coral and broken crockery.

A little farther on the deep water entrance to the lagoon curved between sunken rocks. On one of them rested the Sirdar's huge funnel. The north-west section of the reef was bare. Among the wreckage he found a coil of stout rope and a pulley. He instantly conceived the idea of constructing an aerial line to ferry the chest of tea across the channel he had fathomed.

He threaded the pulley with the rope and dangled the tree, adding a touch of artistic completeness to the ruin of his trousers, by the operation. He had fastened the pulley high up the trunk before he realized how much more simple it would be to break open the chest where it lay and transport its contents in small parcels.

He launched lightly. "I am becoming a little heavier," he said to himself. "Anyhow, now the job is done, I may as well make use of it."

Reeling the rope ends, he cast them across to the reef. In such small ways do men throw invisible dice with death. With those two lines he would within a few fleeting seconds drag himself back from eternity.

Picking up the ax, he carefully stepped into the water, not knowing that Iris, having wedged the incipient saw into a flat pancake, had strolled to the beach and was watching him.

The water was hardly above his knees when there came a swirling rush from the seaward. A long tentacle shot out like a lasso and gripped his right leg. Another coiled around his waist.

"My God!" he gurgled as a horrid sucker closed over his mouth and nose.

He was in the grip of a devilfish! A deadly sensation of nausea almost overpowered him, but the love of life came to his aid and he tore the suffocating feeler from his face. Then the ax whirled, and one of the eight arms of the octopus lost some of its length.

Yet a fourth flung itself around his left ankle. A few feet away, out of range of the ax and lifting itself bodily out of the water, was the dread form of the cuttle, apparently all head, with distended gills and monstrous eyes.

"A lashed rat trap," he muttered. The sailor's feet were planted wide apart. With frenzied effort he backed at the murderous tentacles, but the water hindered him, and he was forced to lean back in superhuman strain to avoid losing his balance. If once this terrible assailant got him down he knew he was lost. The very need to keep his feet prevented him from attempting to deal a mortal blow.

The cuttle was anchored by three of its tentacles. Its remaining arm darted with sinuous activity to again clutch the man's face or neck. With the ax he smote madly at the curling feeler, diverting its aim time and again, but failing to deliver an effective stroke.

With agonized persistence the sailor knew that he was yielding. Were the devilfish a giant of its tribe he could not have held out so long. As it was, the creature could afford to wait, strengthening its grasp, tightening its coils, pulling and pumping at its prey with remorseless certainty.

He was nearly spent. In a paroxysm of despair he resolved to give way and with one mad effort seek to bury the ax in the monster's brain. But ere he could execute this fatal project, for the cuttle would have instantly swept him into the trailing weeds, five revolver shots rang out in quick succession. Iris had reached the nearest rock.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours. A sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells you more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Bad Stomach Makes Bad Blood.

You can not make sweet better in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate, work up and disintegrate our food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and foul the result will be torpid, sluggish liver and bad, impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion. Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs; especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will reduce many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity. It is useful in chronic intestinal dyspepsia, especially the flaccid variety, and in certain forms of chronic constipation, stimulating the secretory and excretory functions of the intestinal glands."

When combined, in just the right proportions, with Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Blood-root and Mandrake root, or the extracts of these, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there can be no doubt of its great efficacy in the cure of all stomach, liver and intestinal disorders and derangements. These several ingredients have the strongest endorsement in all such cases of such eminent medical leaders as Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Robert A. Harris, M. D., of Medical Department, University of Pa.; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Medical Department, University of New York; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago; Prof. John M. Souder, M. D., and Prof. John Kim, M. D., of American Dispensary, and scores of others among the leading medical men of our land.

Who can doubt the curative virtues of a medicine the ingredients of which have such a professional endorsement? Constipation cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One or two a dose.

John D. Rockefeller needn't worry. The information that has been filed by an Ohio prosecuting attorney will not injure his standing with the noble-minded hotel-keeper in France.

The investigation by the grand jury at Boston of the contribution to the Republican campaign funds has been postponed to July 24th. What with the conviction of Proctor, Senator Lodge's private secretary, for larceny of a contribution to the campaign fund, the Lodge political machine is being pretty thoroughly jolted these days.

Castro has gone back to his job of president of Venezuela, and the nations of the earth who do not care to get licked should walk circumspectly.

Appointment Clerk John W. Langley, of the census department, will leave Washington for Louisville, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and other Western cities to arrange for taking statistics of marriage and divorce in these cities. He will confer with state and city officials to find out the number of cases to be investigated, and from 200 to 300 census clerks will start the investigation August 1. These statistics will be gathered for the first time in twenty years under special act of congress.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON V, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JULY 29.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xiv, 1-14. Memory Verses, 13, 14—Golden Text, Luke xiv, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1906, by American Press-Association.)

In all selections from the life of our Lord there is always so much omitted that we ought to consider. In the long portion between last week's lesson and this notice at least the "blessings" of xi, 28; xii, 37, 38, 43; xiii, 35, and the great hindrance to all blessing on our part, "Ye would not" (xiii, 34), or, as in John v, 40, "Ye will not come to me." God is always ready to save and to bless, but man is always ready to want his own sinful rebellious way. It is pitiful to read how the world knew Him not and His own rejected Him (John i, 10, 11), but when we see these Pharisees pretending to honor Him and in their hearts hating and despising Him and watching Him to find something whereof to accuse Him we cannot but wonder how He could suffer it, knowing it all as He did. In all things He left us an example that we should follow His steps (1 Pet. ii, 21), and remember that a meek and quiet spirit is in the sight of God of great price (1 Pet. iii, 4).

It is the Sabbath day when He enters the house of this Pharisee to eat bread and sees before Him a man with the dropsy, an opportunity to manifest His compassion. Compare other Sabbath day healings in chapters vi, 7-11; xiii, 11-16, and remember that He is Lord of the Sabbath, and is lawful to do what is good on the Sabbath day (Matt. xii, 8, 12). Nothing is of any value apart from God and except it honors Him. The Sabbaths and passovers and other days were given by Him to bless His people by revealing Himself more fully to them, but they had long since become a mere form so that He could not tolerate them (Isa. i, 10-20; xxx, 8-12; xxxix, 13; Ezek. xxxiii, 31; Matt. xx, 7-9). It is so again, and in the end of the age in which we are there is much religionism which is a mere form without power (1 Tim. iii, 4, 5; iv, 2), mere hypocrisy, as in the days of our Lord, straining out gnats and swallowing camels (Matt. xxiii). Instead of worshiping the Lord of the Sabbath they had made an idol of the Sabbath and were worshiping it. God was in a sense dethroned and man exalted, as when they rejected Him as their king and demanded a king like other nations (1 Sam. viii, 4-7).

After Jesus had given health to the body of the sick man He began to deal with the hearts of those present concerning pride and humility, summing up His teaching in these words, "Whoever exalteth himself shall be abased, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted" (verse 11). It is always a question of self or some one else, of pleasing self or denying self, or, in another aspect, it is God or the devil as it started with Eve in Eden. In our lesson it is simply a matter of the best seat at the feast—shall I take it if I can get it or yield it to some one else; shall I invite myself up or wait to be invited? This spirit of self-exaltation was seen not only in the Pharisees, as when John and James wanted the highest seats in the kingdom, and at the last passover when there was a strife among them as to who should be the greatest (Matt. xx, 20, 21; Luke ix, 46; xii, 24) and at other times. All self will, self pleasing, self exaltation, savors of Babylon and the great adversary of God and man (Gen. xli, 1-34; Isa. xiv, 13, 14; Dan. iv, 30; xl, 31-37).

Having healed the sick man and given a message to the guests, He now has a word for His host, not exactly on the line of humility, but on the line of doing good to those who cannot reward you for it, willing to wait for the recompense till the time of true reward at the resurrection (the just, or, as it is in Rev. xii, 12, 1 Pet. v, 4, the time of His coming again). His appearing as the chief shepherd. While our fitness for the kingdom depends wholly upon the merits of Christ, His precious blood, His finished work, apart from any works of ours, we are saved in order to work, to walk in the good works prepared for us (Eph. ii, 8-10), and our faithfulness and self denial will fit us for our places in the kingdom, and our works shall be rewarded or consumed, according as they have been wrought unto Him or unto self (1 Cor. iii, 14, 15). From the time of our new birth as long as we stay in these mortal bodies we are in preparation and in training for our life in the immortal body when we shall reign with Him in His kingdom.

All the self life will be ruled out and lost, but all the manifestation of His life in us by His spirit will stand and be approved and rewarded. Inasmuch as He appoints all things for us according to His infinite wisdom, with a view to our highest good and eternal glory, it becomes us to receive all as from Him and bear meekly and do cheerfully all that He appoints, remembering that His way is perfect (Ps. xviii, 30). But since He was there, as it would appear, by the invitation of one of the chief Pharisees the question arises, What had such a man to do with the resurrection of the just? It must be that the Saviour implied that only a just or justified man would act as He had suggested, for selfish, worldly people are not apt to live to do good to the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind. Such renunciation of self and living for others imply the new birth, the spirit of Christ in us, and all such shall take part in the first resurrection (Rev. xx, 6). The exhortation in Mic. vi, 8, to do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with God implies a previous becoming just before God, for only those who are justified according to Rom. v, 1; iii, 24, can do this.

ANNUAL REUNION

OF TOBACCO ASSOCIATION WILL BE HELD SEPT. 22

Guthrie Will be The Scene and The Occasion Promises to be One Of Great Success.

Glenhaven, Tenn., July 20, 1906.
To the Kentucky New Era.

The annual reunion of the Tobacco Planters Protective Association will be held at Guthrie, Ky., at the fair grounds, Saturday, September 23, 1906. The continued success of this association, which is the most important of its kind in existence, has determined the management to make the next gathering of its members, a more brilliant success than the last. It is said between seventeen and eighteen thousand people were counted into the grounds in 1905. Three hundred carcasses were barbecued. This time arrangements will be made for twenty-five thousand people. Five hundred carcasses will be barbecued.

There will be a grand procession, which will be graced by beautiful women on horseback. The most eminent orators and thinkers of our section will be present to address the members. The music will be especially selected. One word will be used, and thought of, as the crowning glory of the day, "Success."

Application has been made to the railroads for reduced rates from all points in the entire tobacco growing section and it is hoped that every good man and good woman, who has worked so nobly for the success of this worthy and necessary cause against the efforts of corporate greed, will enjoy the pleasures of this day; learn more of the workings of the association, and thus receive renewed inspiration for perpetual success.

Yours truly,
F. G. Ewing, General Manager.

UNKNOWN ASSASSIN

Kills two Men on Public Road in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 20.—A dispatch from Sergeant, Ky., says: The details received here from Beaver Creek, fifteen miles north, concerning the assassination of Dick Hall and a man named Thornberry, Tuesday evening are meager. The most authentic reports show that Hall and Thornberry were assassinated as they were riding along Beaver Creek. Hall was killed on the spot, the reports indicate, while Thornberry was desperately wounded and may die.

It is known that a feud had been growing between the members of the Hall and Thornberry families, and a clash was hourly expected. When John Thornberry, one of the men assassinated, joined the Hall for two weeks ago it gave new life to the factions. Now there is much excitement and those in close touch with both factions declare that more bloodshed is imminent. A special messenger was sent to the scene. Excitement is high.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Thomas Tinsley, of Ft. Worth, Texas, is in the county visiting friends and relatives. He formerly resided here.

Miss Mary Cushman has returned from a visit in Mt. Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Alden, of Paris, Tenn., are visiting Archie Higgins' family.

Miss Carrie Leavell, of Columbus, Ohio will arrive in the city tonight to visit Miss Bessie Walker.

Dr. T. W. Holt, formerly a resident of this section but who now lives in California, is here visiting old acquaintances.

Mrs. Walter A. Radford, who has been under treatment at the Hopkinsville Sanitarium several weeks, returned Tuesday to her home in Pembroke, much improved in health.

Mrs. Hannah Morton, of St. Joseph, Mo., is visiting the family of F. J. Brownell.

ELKS REUNION ENDS

HOPKINSVILLE DELEGATES HAD TIME OF THEIR LIVES

New Ritual Adopted, and Changes of Vast Importance Made in the Constitution.

Messages from the Hopkinsville Elks who are attending the big reunion at Denver state that they are "having a time of their life," and that royal treatment is being accorded the visiting.

Grand lodge officers are elected as follows:

Grand exalted ruler, Henry A. Melvin, Oakland, Cal.

Grand esteemed leading knight, R. L. Quessier, Zanesville, O.

Grand esteemed loyal knight, Edward McLaughlin, Boston.

Grand esteemed lecturing knight, W. W. MacClellan, Pittsburg.

Grand trustee, Dr. W. H. Haviland, Butte, Mont.

Grand secretary, Fred C. Robinson, Dubuque, Ia.

Grand treasurer, John K. Tenor, Charleroi, Pa.

An effort was made to have a constitutional convention called for this fall, but this was voted down, and the convention decided to adopt a new constitution at this session. The body went into committee of the whole, with J. B. Fisher, of Jamestown, N. Y., in the chair. The committee had the draft of the new constitution ready, and was adopted.

It is sought to build up the order on the lines of an executive, legislative and judicial body. To decrease the size of the Grand Lodge and make it a representative body the plan is this: No one will be legislated out, and all the Grand Lodge members remain unless they drop out of the order. Failure to attend the session of the Grand Lodge for four consecutive years will cost the member his life membership. Elected delegates will serve two years, the even years and the odd members in odd years. As the older members die off or drop out the body will gradually become representative.

The Grand Lodge went on record emphatically against auxiliary bodies of any kind and against an insurance feature in this connection. The work will be resumed today after the parade.

Last night there was an exemplification of the new ritual. For several years the old ritual underwent almost annual revision, and last year a committee was appointed to look after the work of getting up a new ritual, and a prize of $1,000 was offered for the work which should be successful of adoption. As a result thirteen new rituals were written and submitted to the committee. The committee then compiled a ritual from the thirteen submitted, and the prize money will be distributed among the writers whose rituals enter into the one composed by the committee. Several radical changes in the secret work have been made.

NEGRO BOY'S SUICIDE.

Fired Pistol Ball Into His Stomach at Pembroke.

Tom Coleman, a 12-year-old colored boy died at his home in Pembroke from the effects of a pistol shot in his stomach, fired with suicidal intent. He had a feeble mind and had threatened to kill himself. Where he secured the pistol is not known.

Fetters Won.

Hopkinsville lost the third game of the series with the Fetters at Pembroke yesterday after they seemingly had it well in hand. Up to the seventh inning they were in the lead but in this inning the Fetters made five scores and won the score of 6 to 5.

THE more business we do the more we want to do. I have the best business that any machine shop has had heretofore in Hopkinsville. But it only makes me hungry for more.

I want to call your attention to the fact that we have the most up-to-date machine shop this side of Louisville. I have just added to my shop a milling machine, which has been such a necessity for several years, and is the first that was ever in use in Hopkinsville.

It is my intention to add more machinery from time to time, if you will only assist me by giving me your trade for steam and gasoline engines of all sizes, saw mills, saws, shafting, hangers, pulleys, belting, pipe, fitting, valves, oil, injectors, pumps, flue cleaners and packing.

Please give me a call and if you will do business with me you will always be my customer.
